

Rwanga Foundation Annual Report 2023

A world where quality education is accessible for all

About Us

Rwanga Foundation for Development is a non-profit organization that aims to promote sustainable development and improve the quality of life for individuals and communities. The Foundation was established in 2013, focusing on multiple intervention sectors to bring about positive change. Its primary sectors of intervention include youth, education, environment and vulnerable groups.

Through the youth empowerment initiatives, Rwanga Foundation recognizes the youth's immense potential and importance in shaping the future by empowering and supporting young people to unleash their creativity, explore their passions, and acquire practical skills that will enable them to thrive in a rapidly changing world. Youth development opportunities include leadership and entrepreneurship programs, social change, innovation, and technical training.

Rwanga Foundation through the education sector employs contemporary and pragmatic teaching methodologies, steering clear of traditional educational systems, to enhance access to quality education. This involves bolstering infrastructure, offering comprehensive training for both educators and students, integrating cutting-edge technology, refining curricula and pedagogical approaches, extending scholarship opportunities, and facilitating vocational training programs.

For environmental sustainability, the Foundation is committed to undertaking various initiatives to address environmental challenges. The initiatives include raising awareness about climate change, adopting sustainable agriculture practices, building resilience in agricultural systems, promoting renewable energy solutions, and advocating for environmentally friendly practices.

Additionally, the foundation emerges as a beacon of hope, extending its compassionate arms to uplift the vulnerable. The foundation's relentless mission is not only to ensure survival but to sculpt a path toward education, skill development, and self-discovery. In the corridors of despair, Rwanga Foundation becomes a steadfast companion, guiding individuals towards the transformative journey of learning.

SUCCEED. COMMIT. DECIDE.

Idris Nechirvan Idris
Founder and President

We established Rwanga Foundation to help make education universal. To improve education is the principal idea that guides us; we firmly hold that the employability, dignity, security and self-respect of individuals hinges on their education. We believe that the individuals' education is by far their most precious investment and in effect, confers identity to them. We operate on the belief that in this changing world, individuals remain loyal only to a culture based on education. Therefore, we aim to create a culture of learning among the youth so that they find an essential function in society.

To counter the adverse circumstances, created by the ongoing conflicts in Iraq and Syria, we broadened our operations beyond education and youth empowerment to include refugee and disaster relief. We have aided the internally displaced peoples in Iraq and the Kurdistan Region, and assisted the Syrian refugees; in particular, to help them pursue education, to facilitate capacity building, and to provide employment opportunities. Furthermore, as a response to the Covid-19 pandemic, Rwanga volunteers have been distributing food supplies to the vulnerable families in quarantine.

Rwanga continues to focus on education and youth empowerment, and in the meantime stands ready to support the disadvantaged and the less fortunate in our society. We remain steadfast to create a better future; we remain committed to our vision of improving education and creating a culture of learning.

In 2023, Rwanga Foundation was able to effectively implement programs and activities in the four areas of youth, education, environment, and vulnerable groups, mostly in Iraq's Kurdistan Region as well as in other governorates of Irag. The Foundation successfully carried out 53 projects, each of which included various activities designed to promote and assist the local community and youth groups, carry out policymaking within the educational system, and carry out research to strengthen both local and national development solutions. The support was provided to more than 35,000 beneficiaries from a variety of age groups, genders, and communities of hosts, IDPs, and refugees, with a particular emphasis on young women and men.

Rwanga Awards 2023

As part of Rwanga's mission to help young people reach their full potential, Rwanga Award sought out and recognized works of art, literature, and science from all throughout the Kurdistan region and Iraq. The award also aimed to boost self-esteem and encourage young people to pursue their passions. Rwanga Foundation welcomed submissions in 10 distinct categories from youth from all over Iraq (including IDPs and refugees) who were between the ages of fifteen and twenty-five. The submission categories included short stories (Kurdish and Arabic), short films, graphic design, scientific innovation, entrepreneurship, solo musicians, photography, sketching, poetry (Kurdish and Arabic), and software development. Participants followed the instructions provided in each segment to join in. For every category, a specialized jury reviewed the submissions. The jury selected the nominees, and they took part in the Rwanga Award final ceremony at the end of 2023, where the winners were announced.

Youth Volunteers Initiative (YVI) 2023

Voluntary work was often considered as an understanding activity where youths provided services without personal or financial gain, solely for the public benefit. However, volunteers frequently required support, including financial assistance, to cover the costs of necessary tools, materials, and equipment essential for their projects. Thus, Rwanga Foundation launched the "Youth Volunteers Initiative" project. This project aimed to encourage young people to develop and submit project proposals, participating in a competition for funding and support. The goal was to empower them to effectively implement their projects, thereby maximizing public benefit.

HITEX 2023

At the Erbil International Exhibition, the Red Eagle Company, in partnership with Rwanga Foundation for Development, hosted the largest yearly technology conference and exposition in Iraq, known as the Hawler International Technology Exhibition (HITEX). Through its exhibition of the world>s most innovative products, services, and technological developments, HITEX provided businesses with a new channel for growth. Many hundred local and international tech companies came to the event to present their most recent innovations. At HITEX, exhibitors had the chance to join forces, apply for government contracts, and create domestic and international business collaborations. In addition to fostering direct lines of communication between management and customers, exhibitors engaged with prospective clients during the HITEX Days. Together with an exhibit hall featuring the latest technologies from exhibitors, HITEX offered a platform for entertainment, conferences, seminars, and information on global and Iraqi technological advancements. Additionally, by exhibiting their unique innovations and business plans, HITEX gave imaginative people the opportunity to become HITEX Future stars. This helped the individuals become recognized and possibly even launch their ideas.

VOKA Project (Developing Economic Cooperation)-Erbil

Through a series of useful training programs and informative conferences, we made our commitment to the agri-food industry clear. These programs, which sought to boost regional agricultural output and boost exports, were successful. They were carried out in collaboration with the Chambers of Commerce and Industry of Flanders (VOKA) and Erbil.

The educational conferences equipped local farmers with the necessary know-how and abilities, bringing them into compliance with global industry norms and offering innovative farming methods, quality assurance procedures, marketing strategies, and export logistics. The conferences created an avenue for local producers to engage with industry experts and international buyers, cultivating a network that is expected to yield long-term economic benefits. Our emphasis on sustainable practices and broadening market access established a robust foundation for the continued growth and diversification of the local agri-food industry. The Rwanga Foundation was able to give VOKA 20 reports in order to give the local farmers additional knowledge about global issues. The strategic partnership with Voka and the Erbil Chamber exemplified our sustained commitment to promoting our local products on the international stage and advancing economic development

Innovation hubs (Assessment Reports)

Under the guidance of the Research Innovation Hub, Rwanga Foundation carried out two crucial assessments in the previous year, with the kind assistance of Rwanga's contribution. The first evaluation, titled "Assessing Climate Change Effects in Sinjar - Ninewa," was an extensive study aimed at understanding and addressing the multiple challenges presented by climate change in the Ninawa region. This assessment focused on evaluating strategies for climate change mitigation and adaptation, actively involving local communities in these efforts, gaining insights into current and anticipated climate-related challenges, and identifying the root causes and drivers of environmental loss. It brought to light significant issues such as deforestation, the effects of wastewater, industrial activities, and land-use changes.

The second assessment, conducted in the Al-Anbar governorate, centered on the marketing of regional agricultural products. This study highlighted the unique challenges and opportunities in the agricultural sector, particularly regarding the accessibility and marketing of local produce. A key finding from this study was the significant reliance of farmers on intermediaries to access markets, with many selling their products wholesale. The farmers expressed a need for improved marketing skills to increase sales and profitability. The assessment identified crucial support areas, including financial assistance, enhanced transportation infrastructure, and training in online promotion.

These assessments by the Rwanga Foundation have been pivotal in shaping our understanding of and response to the complex challenges in these regions. The findings will guide our future interventions and strategies to ensure their effectiveness and sustainability.

Youth Rights at Work

In the past year, Rwanga Foundation has taken significant steps in enhancing the 2015 Rights@Work for Youth Guide and Toolkit. a pivotal resource in supporting the labor rights and opportunities of young individuals, particularly in challenging environments. This substantial update was achieved through a comprehensive process that involved several key stages. Initially, a detailed youth survey was conducted across the governorates of Baghdad, Erbil, Sulaimaniyah, Ninewa, Basra, Anabr, and Duhok governorates, with a focus on regions that are home to refugees and internally displaced persons (IDPs). The purpose was to gather current insights and experiences directly from the youth, ensuring our revisions were truly reflective of their daily realities.

At the same time, we conducted an extensive review of the Iraqi national legislation and policies related to labor law and rights. This step was essential for aligning our guide and toolkit with up-to-date legal frameworks and practices. Our efforts continued with ongoing communication and consultations with ILO's global and field ground teams, complementing our analysis.

These interactions were instrumental in incorporating practical, on-the-ground perspectives and expertise into our updated materials. The end result of these efforts is the release of the updated Rights@Work for Youth Guide and Toolkit. This newly revised resource now offers more relevant and practical guidance, tailored to the current socio-economic climate.

Further, we will carry out a series of Training of Trainers (ToT) sessions in 2024 to ensure effective delivery and utilization of the guide. These sessions will equip local trainers with the knowledge and skills to efficiently pass on the updated information, thus maximizing its impact on the youth in these essential governorates.

The Danish Sustainable Reintegration Program, Iraq. Cultural Awareness – Skills Development – Referral and Job Placement

With the kind assistance of our donor, the Ministry of Foreign Affairs of Denmark, we were able to make great improvements toward offering these Iraqi returnees from Denmark practical options for their lives. Our strategy was two-faceted: initially, we helped returnees find employment, facilitating their reintegration into the community. This aspect of the project did not only provide immediate employment but also significantly contributed to the social and economic stabilization of the returnees.

Furthermore, we invested in their long-term success through our Business Development Service (BDS) program. The carefully designed curriculum of this program imparted essential skills and resources, enabling the returnees to start and manage their own small businesses. Our dual approach of providing immediate job placements and developing entrepreneurial skills made our reintegration efforts more sustainable. The job placements provided a fast solution to financial needs, while the establishment of small businesses opened pathways for selfreliance and significant contributions to the local economy. The success of this project, largely due to the support of our donor, indicates a meaningful and long-term impact on the lives of the returnees and their communities.

University Guide (viewers)

As an initiative of the Rwanga Foundation for Development, the University Guide Video Project was a great resource for students seeking to explore different university areas of interest. The project provided comprehensive information about each university and its various departments through a series of educational videos. These videos, created with care, featured interviews with influential individuals from each college, offering an all-encompassing perspective. Key figures, such as the department heads and college deans, were interviewed, providing expert insights into the programs, resources, and opportunities available. Likewise, the project included interviews with students who were enrolled in these departments at the time, offering a unique and relatable viewpoint. This combination of perspectives, from administrative leaders to actual students, presented prospective students with a detailed understanding of what they could expect. This approach significantly aided them in making informed decisions about their academic futures.

Empowering Youth for Inclusive Participation in Kasnazan

Young people from diverse backgrounds, including members of the host community, internally displaced people (IDPs), and refugees, suffered from a serious lack of engagement and contact. The activity that was planned was to provide a solution to this essential issue plaguing the Kasnazan community. This was a significant problem, as it directly affected social connections and mutual understanding between these different groups. To effectively tackle this problem, Rwanga developed a plan intended to enhance social cohesiveness in multiple ways. This approach emphasized the importance of communication between coexisting communities and how volunteerled initiatives could promote peace and understanding. The limited opportunities and support provided to volunteer organizations increased the lack of public interaction and communication among various communities. The inability of these volunteer projects to secure funding hindered their ability to plan, coordinate, and carry out activities, which ultimately led to a decline in social mobilization and a scarcity of public spaces where these groups could come together. These issues needed to be resolved, both then and in the future, to foster harmony, understanding, and social cohesion among the various youth groups in Kasnazan and eventually promote a sense of community and cooperation.

Youth Initiaitve 2023

Through a series of projects titled "Youth Initiatives 2023," which were initiated by Rwanga Foundation in 2023, the Foundation intended to empower young people and improve their skill sets. A key focus was on sewing, where participants learned both basic and advanced techniques during our Sewing Training Sessions. To support their learning and enable them to practice, we provided 20 sewing machines. Digital skills were also a significant part of our initiative. In the Microsoft Office Training Sessions, we covered Word, Excel, and PowerPoint. 20 participants had the opportunity to apply these skills in practical settings. To further support this learning, we equipped the Rwandzi Social Development Center with seven desktop computers. Our efforts extended to infrastructure development as well, with the renovation of two local stadiums: Nzari Village Stadium in Sidakan district and Alana Village Stadium in Khalifan district. These renovations modernized the facilities and playing fields, benefiting the surrounding communities. Last, under our youth initiatives sector, we partnered with Byte, a growing technical community in Kurdistan. This partnership was directed towards supporting Byte's goal of hosting a significant Byte Conference. Our collaboration aimed to take advantage of the strengths of both organizations for the benefit of the local IT community and the region as a whole. The number of attendees for this event was around 50.

Data Entry Assignment in Iraq

When it comes to provide important services to the people of Iraq, the Social Security and Retirement Departments in Baghdad, as well as the Directorate of Labor in KRI, play an extremely important role. However, there are serious inefficiencies in the current paper-based document management system, which increase the risks of data loss, delays, and security risks. Rwanga Foundation, in collaboration with the International Labour Organization (ILO), has committed to starting a project in this area. The original plan was to digitize the records of the Social Security and Retirement Departments in both Baghdad and KRI; however, obstacles have necessitated changes to this plan. It has been noted that the records kept in Baghdad are in a precarious state, with some on the point of total destruction or damage, creating risks to the confidentiality of the data. To address this, Rwanga Foundation hired 16 employees in Baghdad to scan the dossiers and 8 employees in Erbil, Sulaimaniyah, Duhok, Halabja, Raparin, and Garmian. These employees were tasked with compiling all of the Directorate of Labor's files (after-sale Department Service) into a single Excel spreadsheet. This allows government employees to use the Excel file to simplify the workflow and prevent information gaps. Once the team completed the work in the KRI, the Excel document was shared with the General Directorate of Labor and Social Affairs (DoLSA). Also, eight laptops were provided to the DoLSA, enabling their staff to use them for data recording. Meanwhile, the Baghdad project has been extended by an additional six months.

Reforming the Social Assistance Program in KRI (ILO)

No matter the reason, it was recognized that some people in every group did not have sufficient resources. Although there was a government social assistance program in the Kurdistan Region of Iraq (KRI), it required reform due to its deficiencies. To address this, Rwanga Foundation organized a one-day roundtable in collaboration with the International Labor Organization (ILO). The event, which took place in Erbil, brought together various stakeholders and experts to discuss the reform process. Guests invited to the roundtable included government agencies, legal associations, academic institutions, labor unions, social activists, professionals, and civil society groups. Upon completion, the final report was submitted to the ILO for further discussion with the government.

Multi-Year Resilience Program (MYRP)

With the assistance of ECW, a UN global fund for education, and under the direct supervision of consortium leader INTERSOS. Rwanga Foundation for development undertook the rehabilitation of four schools: Mam School in Rania. Mishtanoor School in Qaladze, and Pana and Derik Schools for refugees in ARC. The rehabilitation included enhancements to classrooms and WASH (Water, Sanitation, and Hygiene) facilities, ensuring access to functional water supply, single-gender basic sanitation facilities, and basic hand hygiene facilities at the supported schools. Additionally, water tanks and pumps were provided for the WASH facility units. A Psychosocial Support (PSS) activity, the "Little Fellow" module, was conducted for facilitators at all four targeted schools, with PSS facilitators delivering sessions at each location. Teaching and learning materials, encompassing sports, arts, science, language, and math kits, were procured and distributed to Derik, Mam, and Mishtanoor schools in coordination with the GDoE.

Further, the program included modern finance and management training as part of capacity building for local NGOs and Department of Education authorities. School-based governance and accountability mechanisms, classroom management, PSS training, positive education, professional development, monitoring, and evaluation training sessions were also provided for teachers.

Parent Teacher Association (PTA) sessions were successfully conducted at all four schools. Kurdish preparatory classes and language acquisition classes were part of the non-formal education efforts.

The capacity-building training sessions for teachers included mine risk education for the parent-teacher association. Learning materials packages were distributed at all four targeted schools.

You Are Not Alone 2022-2023 III

The foundation of the project was a comprehensive evaluation of the Erbil orphanage, carried out to determine its deficiencies and necessities. The recipients ranged in age from 5 to 17 years old. The project included creating an online application for the management of the orphanage, which maintained a database of the orphans and oversaw daily, weekly, and monthly activities, as well as case management forms and processes and education and rehabilitation programs. 15 workers were employed for this project, and two capacity-building training sessions concerning supervision and modern orphanage management approaches were given. The "You're Not Alone" project was essential in creating resilient, empowered individuals in the community, especially for children who were victims of domestic abuse. The project's main objective was to empower and rehabilitate the orphans in terms of their psychological, academic, and intellectual abilities while also highlighting their potential to secure a promising and secure future. To accomplish its objective, the initiative combined the use of human resources and technology. The goal was to create a robust management framework for all of Iraq's orphanages in the future.

Providing School Assets and Improving Sanitization and Hygiene Situation in Rovia School

With the kind assistance of the Czech Republic

Development Cooperation, Rwanga Foundation launched a significant small-scale initiative named "Providing School Assets and Improving Sanitization and Hygiene Situations in Rovia School." This project involved the construction and renovation of Rovia School, a task skillfully undertaken by the Foundation. The Foundation responded quickly and effectively after realizing the urgent need to address the area's lack of educational resources, which had become worse due to prior neglect and the recent influx of internally displaced people into the Rovia subdistrict. There were several distinct objectives that drove the initiative. Primarily, it aimed to equip the newly built classrooms with essential educational supplies, thereby significantly enhancing the educational experience of the students. Furthermore, the project was geared towards creating a more conducive and effective learning environment. An equally important objective was to cultivate a sense of responsibility and awareness among students regarding cleanliness and hygiene. This was accomplished by maintaining and promoting the importance of clean water, sanitation, and hygiene (WASH) facilities.

Undertake Advocacy Program on Social Assistance Issues in Iraq

It was an opportunity to lead the social discussion on the governance of social security, which was discussed through the roundtable to address the impact of current developments and problems in terms of social assistance and social security. The roundtable discussion was an opportunity to do this. The International Labor Organization (ILO) and Rwanga Foundation collaborated well with local authorities and respected individuals to engage in social discussions. Influencers, scholars, thought leaders, practitioners, and state representatives were able to share ideas, suggestions, recommendations, and experiences about social policy thanks to this collaboration. Building political capital and advocating for social security's efficacy were the goals. The main objective of the roundtable was to foster constructive discourse among the attendees regarding the expansion of social security coverage.

Social Policy and Economic Perspective in Iraq

Five roundtable discussions were started by Rwanga Foundation and the International Labor Organization (ILO) in four KRI cities: Kirkuk Governorate, Sulaymaniyah, Duhok, Halabja, and Erbil. The roundtables' main goals were to focus the main issues affecting social security in the community and found creative ways to collaborate with all parties involved. Each governorate's subjects were selected with consideration for the areas' most pressing needs and shortcomings in social security. The roundtable discussions sought to strengthen the social security articles specified in labor law, identify new career paths that need to be registered with social security, and expand the reach of social security coverage to include informal labor. Following the roundtables, ILO received the final report and debate the recommendation with the KRI parliament.

General Education System Modernization in Kurdistan - Policy Paper

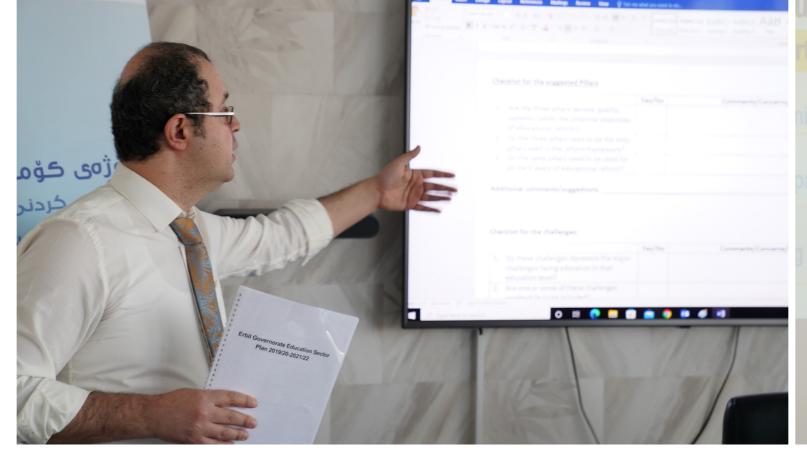

An ambitious plan to reform Kurdistan's educational system was outlined in a policy paper in 2023. It offered a forward-thinking and all-encompassing strategy for updating the general education system to meet the particular difficulties and developmental goals of the area. The strategy promoted encouraging students to become lifelong learners, proficient in 21st-century skills, and ready to contribute to the advancement of their country while responsibly and resiliently adjusting to the quickly changing global environment. The policy did not only emphasize the pursuit of work but also the development of fundamental life skills and a profound respect for Kurdistan's rich cultural legacy. It put forth a five-point strategic plan with the intention of modernizing the educational system in a comprehensive and integrated manner. The strategy outlined a range of goals and programs that were divided into short-, medium-, and long-term plans that were all designed to have an immediate effect and to advance slowly. This methodology tackled multiple ecological levels in the educational system, including individual students, teachers, policy settings, and multitiered partnerships. The main objective was to have a profound impact on the Kurdish educational system and promote an inclusive, innovative, and civic-minded culture. Initiated in 2023, the regional character and values.

this modernization project was a major turning point in the definition of education in Kurdistan, bringing it into compliance with global norms while honoring and conserving:

- Initiated a broad-based reform of Kurdistan's educational system, aligning it with contemporary challenges and developmental objectives.
- Implemented a five-point strategic plan for a holistic and integrated approach to modernize the education system.

Messages From Children 2022 - 2023

It was really important to communicate in a clear and fair way, without letting things like religion or ethnicity get in the way. Adults needed to teach kids in a way that really made a difference. Kids were not just there to listen; they had important things to say and show, which helped them and everyone else learn important lessons. This is where the "Messages from Children" project, created by the Rwanga Foundation, came in. In this project, kids used simple drawings to share their thoughts and ideas with everyone. Each drawing had a special message that was easy for people to understand and believe in. The main goal was to make more people aware of important issues, encourage good changes, and show how important education is. The government in the Kurdistan Region thought these drawings were so powerful that they put them up on a wall in the Parliament building. This showed how much they valued the project and the big role kids have in sharing new and important ideas. By putting these drawings in such an important place, the idea was to make more people understand how important it is to talk and listen to each other fairly. This was a step towards a future where talking clearly, valuing learning, and giving everyone a fair chance were really important.

Empowering Targeted Beneficiaries through Agricultural Technical Training for Agricultural Productivity and Livestock Farming

With the kind help of our valued donor, GIZ, Rwanga Foundation launched an ambitious project in the governorates of Sulaimaniyah and Halabja in 2023. It targeted to improve the socioeconomic status of rural residents. This project successfully targeted 80 small-scale farmers and provided them with thorough technical training in horticulture, dairy, and poultry production, among other agricultural areas. The main objective of this endeavor was to enhance the capacities of these individuals, thereby cultivating robust communities and contributing significantly to the economic recovery of rural areas. The training courses were thoughtfully designed to encompass both theoretical and practical components, ensuring that the farmers did not only acquire the knowledge but also the practical skills necessary to optimize their farming operations. The project yielded favorable results, with participants reporting increased output, improved produce quality, and a deeper understanding of sustainable farming methods. Furthermore, the project enhanced the impact of our efforts by enabling trained farmers to disseminate their newly acquired knowledge to colleagues and neighbors in their communities.

Rwanga Back To School Initiative 2023

To celebrate the beginning of the new school year, Rwanga Foundation, in collaboration with Burger King, initiated a series of supportive programs for schools. We kicked off by distributing 373 school bags to students in the first, second, and third grades. To help with teaching efforts, we equipped schools with 10 stoves and 10 whiteboards. In addition, 120 first-grade students and their teachers were provided with meals. A special celebration, featuring fun activities, was held at the newly opened Burger King branch in Grand Majidi Mall, creating a memorable experience for the students. Our commitment extended to the Boy Orphanage House in Sulaimaniyah, where we supplied 21 boys with essential stationery and school clothes. This act was part of our ongoing partnership with the Directorate of Social Welfare. Furthering our educational support, we provided Dlara High School for Girls in the Soran Independent Administration with artistic tools such as painting stands, canvases, brushes, and colors, along with necessary lab materials. Also, we installed an air conditioning unit in the school hall for improved learning conditions. At Vazhin Primary School in Duhok, we distributed 380 stationery packages to 377 students (193 males and 184 females), each filled with supplies needed for the school year. These efforts underscore our dedication to enhance education and support students across various regions. In line with this mission, Rwanga undertook a renovation project at Tava High School in Duhok to serve an underserved community, with many students coming from low-income families. Based on a thorough assessment, key gaps in the school's educational infrastructure were identified, including upgrades to lighting, sanitation facilities, and window repairs.

Planting Million Oaks Project

As a response to climate change, this project represented the first of its kind in Iraq's Kurdistan region. The issue it addressed was the increased carbon dioxide in the atmosphere, primarily caused by the burning of fossil fuels, which contributes to climate change. The Rwanga Foundation, in partnership with the Hasar organization, set an ambitious goal to plant one million oak trees between 2021 and 2024. To achieve this, the project implemented an irrigation system and directly cultivated oak acorns, which were collected from the mountains. These oaks were nurtured until the seedlings grew into small trees. After a year, they were ready for planting. The designated area for planting these oak trees spanned 120 meters along roadways within Erbil municipal. The selection of the site and landscape was overseen by the directorate of municipal park administration.

Market and Business Development for Solar Power in Iraq

As a major step toward sustainable energy solutions, Rwanga has enthusiastically assumed management of Iraq's leading solar energy platform. This platform serves as both a comprehensive reference center and a hub for solar photovoltaic (PV) applications. It provides a wealth of information in the form of instructional materials, reports, tools, and websites that are relevant and insightful. The goal of this project is to learn more about the specifics of solar photovoltaic applications. It also acts as a guide for the changing market trends and legislative frameworks in Iraq's solar energy industry. This crucial role played by Rwanga underscores the organization's dedication to promoting sustainable energy development in Iraq and marks a significant advancement in the nation's transition to renewable energy sources.

Providing Food Baskets to Impoverished Families in KRI Governorates

A key focus of our efforts was a project aimed at reducing food insecurity among low-income and vulnerable families in the Kurdistan Region of Iraq (KRI). Our main objective was to provide these families, many of whom struggled to access sufficient food, with the essential assistance they needed. To ensure the successful implementation of this initiative, we partnered with local government representatives from the governorate offices and the Department of Labor and Social Affairs (DoLSA) across the KRI governorates.

A critical aspect of our strategy involved the distribution of food baskets. These baskets were thoughtfully prepared with a variety of essential food items, designed to offer not only immediate relief but also nutritional value. The project sought to address the immediate nutritional needs and improve the overall health and well-being of the families it served. Through this initiative, we reached a significant number of families, providing them with a necessary lifeline during challenging times. The success of this project stands as a testament to the power of collaborative efforts and the profound impact that hands-on support can have in combating food insecurity. The stories of those we have helped continue to remind us of the importance of our mission and the real, tangible impact we can make in the lives of those in need.
